I haven't had time to read the plan in detail as it is such a busy time of year.

It is strange how often unpopular plans are put forward at Christmas or during holidays!

However the height of new buildings seems quite ridiculous-it would turn Wimbledon into Kingston or Croydon. Neither town centre has any appeal so the result would be people moving away from the area and therefore less revenue in the long run. I imagine the plan is to make more revenue by having such tall buildings-but not much use if they aren't filled.
