The extension of the tram link and cross links are vital to helping Wimbledon becoming a key hub and Borough. But its important that the history and warmth of the borough are not lost.
A key to borough development is making it more attractive as both residential, commercial and cultural. A key to the redevelopment of Birmingham was the building of a new concert hall and exhibition centre. The council should fully support and encourage the building of a new concert hall in Wimbledon with provisions to help all the arts. This would also provide an opportunity to people coming to the tennis to stay overnight rather than heading back to central London as at present. We have a great opportunity don't lose it.
